“ I met Carl in 1971 when he was working with my grandfather. I remember him as a very talented machinist and mechanic. To me he was sort of like MacGyver - he could build or do anything with the resources at hand. I worked with him for many years and he taught me a tremendous amount. I did not know of his passing until today. My sincerest condolences to his son, who I haven't seen for years, and to the rest of his family. He was quite a guy, and I am thankful to have known him. - Deighton Brunson
