“ Hey ole Bud , that was his most common greeting. I feel lucky that I happened to be delivering a load of rock to his neighbor a few years ago and I caught Gene out in his yard. We got to visit and catch up after years of not seeing each other. It was a good visit. I'm sorry for the time you bragged about having the first tomato of the season and I stole it, no I'm not. It was worth it to hear you go on about it the next day. Good times! Love you ole Bud! Good journey to you my friend.
