“ I have so many wonderful memories of my dad but the most favorite memory of something that we did together was when I was a fifth grader my grandparents where out of town doing business and my dad planned on taking me youth deer hunting here in Missouri so we got up really early on a Saturday morning and we drove to my granny and papas house we sat on the back porch and that's the day I got to kill my very first buck yeah it wasn't the biggest it was just a four pointer but the memory of knowing that I my dad was right there with me just makes me feel how much it meant to him to pass down the lifestyle that now I take for granted but if this memory touch u specifically children never take the time that we all have with a love one or just a friend for granted because you can't start over with them again after their gone.
