Gloria was the oldest of five children, and talked often about helping her mother raise her younger siblings. She grew up in a musical family and loved watching her parents waltz. Gloria was a graduate of Versailles High School in the class of 1952 and was a very strong independent woman and believed in hard work. She spent many hours outdoors admiring the trees, flowers and birdwatching. She loved attending fish fries, barbecues, and picnics with her family. Gloria was an avid reader, had an impressive book collection and had a vast knowledge of many things. She loved to sew, embroidery, and quilt and made sure each grandchild and great-grandchild had a quilt. Gloria loved to travel, including a trip to England with her friend Hazel, and took several trips with her dear friend Ann. Her family brought her joy, especially her grandsons.
