“ I used to hate going to walmart (and still do) but then one day when i went i saw uncle Forrest setting on the bench as i headed out side and he told me he was looking at all the pretty women and would grin . Then i went to walmart again another day and as i left there was Uncle Forrest again. It was exciting to go to walmart because i knew i would always see him as i left and looked forward to our meeting, no matter how short it was as i didn't want to block his view. haha . Strange enough though , i never saw him when i got there, only when i would leave , what a blessing , he always brightened my day.

I ran into him one day, and I forget what he was looking for, but he was having a hard time finding something...so I helped him... Or I would run into him and ask him if he would like to come eat dinner w/ us.

“ One of my most vivid memories was when Jim and Uncle Jimmy spent weeks making video tapes of the old family 8 mm movies. They took over the living room where Uncle Jimmy ran the projector and Jim ran the videotapes. Linda Fisher

Uncle came by my house one day and had all of his pictures w/ him. I had seen several of them before when I was visiting him when he was living at the lake. I told him there , " I want a copy of that one, this one, and on an on we would talk. He would say, " And this one is when....and I would say, "Wow uncle you were young in that one!" He would explain in detail every picture w/.precise recollection. He was always so proud of his vehicles. I have some pictures, but before I could get copy's of them made from the ones he brought by...I will now probably have lost my opportunity chance in ever getting any copies made. Makes me so sad. I really was waiting for that day he and I were going to sit down and make my reel to reel of Daddy and I and who knows what all is on them now. I was looking forward to that snowy or rainy day, like he said, that we would put them all on VHS. Anyone who knows me...I have pictures of everyone. If it weren't for me there would be a lot of family pictures not even available to others. So whomever goes thru his things,..please let us have the opportunity to have copies, I will be so appreciative~
